5.1 Final-year project reviews are scheduled by the department within the teaching weeks of each semester. A project review may not be placed during the Institute study period without approval.

6. Attendance and Academic Deadlines

6.1 The minimum attendance requirement is 75 percent in each course. Students with attendance from 65 to 74 percent may apply for relaxation under the published guidelines. Attendance below 65 percent is ordinarily not eligible.

6.2 Form ATT-07 and supporting documents must reach the department at least seven working days before the first end-semester examination. A medical certificate supports an application but does not create attendance credit.

6.3 An approved relaxation changes examination eligibility only; the recorded attendance percentage remains unchanged.

7. Holidays and Suspended Instruction

7.1 Institute holidays are observed as notified by the Administration. When an unexpected closure affects teaching or assessment, the Registrar may identify a compensatory working day by official notice.

7.2 A holiday falling within an examination period does not cancel an examination unless the Office of Examinations issues a revised timetable.

8. Interpretation and Amendments

8.1 A deadline ending on a non-working day moves to the next working day only when the relevant regulation expressly permits it. Online portals close at the time stated in the official notice.

8.2 Where this calendar conflicts with an examination regulation, academic regulation or later approved circular, the more specific or later official document prevails.

8.3 Approved changes will be published with a reference number and effective date. Students should rely on the latest version available through official Institute channels.
